REGISTRATION FOR UM SUMMER SESSION
SCHEDULED FOR JUNE 21-25

MISSOULA--

Registration for the 1971 Summer Session at the University of Montana will be from June 21-25.

Wayne C. Woolston, UM registrar, said students will attend classes beginning June 21 and register during their free periods.

Dr. Walter C. Schwank, summer session director, said he expects about 3,500 students for summer classes this year, which would be an increase of 200 compared with last summer.

Summer classes at UM are offered in three sessions--one 4½-week session, June 21-July 21; another 4½-week session, July 22-Aug. 20; and one nine-week session, June 21-Aug. 20.

Students expecting to attend summer classes are asked to inform the UM Registrar's Office so registration packets for each student can be prepared in advance. Students are to pick up their registration packets during the first week of classes and obtain the signatures of their instructors. Billing and fees will be completed in room 205 of Main Hall. Registration is not complete until all fees are paid and packets are turned into the Registrar's Office.

Classes are conducted at UM during the summer session with academic offerings in the College of Arts and Sciences, and Schools of Education, Fine Arts, Business Administration, Journalism, Pharmacy, and in Religious Studies. A number of clinics, workshops and seminars supplement the regular class offerings.

Various recreational activities are also offered during the summer session for students, faculty, staff and interested members of the community.
